

My published books

Josh finds his Voice

A charming adventure story about a child who has a speech and language delay. The book provides valuable information for parents and teachers about this little understood condition.

Voices from the Sand

A heart-warming story about a teacher in a South African township preschool who achieves remarkable results with her students. The book deals with the challenges of post-apartheid South Africa and with the issues around education in conditions of socio-economic deprivation.

The Voices of the Xenolith

The story of a girl with selective mutism who turns detective and in her search for a missing person finds her own voice.

Cynthia Pelman

Language and Communication Science

Communicate with Confidence

HPCPC RCSLT MASLTP

www.cynthiapelman.com

cynthia@cynthiapelman.com - 07788 709 143

Helping you to

- Lose the fear of public speaking
- Learn to like the sound of your own voice and to communicate in a way which engages your audience and colleagues, ensuring that people listen to you
- Feel more comfortable with social talk
- Become more professional at business presentations and in meetings
- Project your voice and sound more assertive
- Feel more confident when speaking at weddings, graduations or other important events
- Speak with a British accent
- Write with legible handwriting

How it works

Initial consultation

We will meet for a confidential and informal discussion of what you feel your communication difficulties are, and what you would like to achieve in our work together. The initial discussion can sometimes provide much insight into how you can start working on your communication skills immediately, on your own.

Coaching

Communication Coaching involves us working together on specific aspects of your communication. Your personal aims and goals are taken into account, and targets would be agreed on mutually and made explicit in a written therapy plan.

British accent

English accent coaching is for people who already speak, read and write English well but who still speak in the accent of their home language.

Add to your business credibility by being able to speak English fluently without a foreign accent.

Your business associates will find your spoken language comfortable to listen to and easy to understand in meetings and on the telephone.

www.british-accent.co.uk

